

Monumental Brass Society

Lingfield Study Day

Saturday, 28th September 2013

Programme

The church of SS. Peter and Paul, Lingfield, Surrey was largely rebuilt by Sir Reginald Cobham when he founded a College here in 1431. In the words of Pevsner 'the result is sober but very satisfying' and with the brasses referred as 'the best set in Surrey'. Many commemorate members of the Cobham family with others representing priests who served the College during the 15th century.
